

WELCOME TO THE FOCUSRITE PLUG-IN COLLECTIVE

Focusrite's latest Plug-in Collective community giveaway is a little bit different this time around. Focusrite have teamed up with one of the leading global distributors of music, TuneCore. Between 27th May and 25th July, all Plug-In Collective members can redeem their code to receive one year of completely free distribution of their next single release.

TuneCore has empowered DIY and independent artists with their global distribution and publishing administration solution for over 15 years. You can upload your music to more than 150 stores worldwide and be confident of their service – TuneCore have helped over one million artists to date and have paid out over $2 billion to those artists. Upload your next single release to TuneCore and have your track distributed to digital stores such as Spotify, Apple Music, Deezer, Amazon Music and many more streaming services around the world. You'll keep 100% of your royalties and retain 100% of your rights.

"This month we've got an exciting and unique offer from our friends at TuneCore," comments Plug-in Collective Product Manager Jonathan Campbell. "Rather than a plug-in, we wanted to bring something to help you out once your masterpiece is finished. Through TuneCore's professional service you'll be able to get a single published completely free; this means one year's distribution to all streaming platforms, and more! This represents an incredible opportunity for anyone that's been thinking about getting a release out there, and through an amazing partner." Plug-in Collective members can get their code for a free release and distribution of their next single for one year with TuneCore from their Focusrite account, from 27th May to 25th July.

Plug-in Collective is a community hub that brings you, Focusrite, and the most innovative software brands together. If you want to find great virtual instruments and effects, keeping up to date with the constant stream of new releases is essential. Plug-in Collective makes it easy, with regular free software downloads and generous discounts on high-end plug-ins. To join Plug-in Collective, simply register any Focusrite hardware product, then look out for a new offer every couple of months. No one else works with software manufacturers like we do to bring you inspirational tools for your next production.
