UAD Spark is an all-new plug-in and virtual instrument collection available via subscription, containing Universal Audio's first-ever native plug-ins which run on Mac with no UA hardware required.

What does this mean for current UAD/Apollo owners?

With the release of UAD Spark, customers will receive 3 additional plug-in titles with purchase of an eligible Apollo HE interface.
- UA 1176 Classic Limiter Collection (3)
- Teletronix LA-2A Classic Leveler Collection (3)
- Pure Plate Reverb

Current owners of any plug-ins available in UAD Spark will receive the UAD Spark versions free.

What does it mean for Volt customers?

Prior to the release of UAD Spark, UAD plug-ins could only be used with an Apollo interface or UAD Accelerator. Now, Volt customers can access world-class UA sound with exclusive plug-ins and virtual instruments on Mac, for a low monthly price with the always-expanding UAD Spark collection.

Better yet, all Volt USB Audio Interfaces now come with an extended 30-day trial of UAD Spark.

Is UA still selling perpetual UAD plug-ins?
Yes. Customers will still be able to purchase UAD plug-ins from UA's online store or as add-on bundles with the purchase of Apollo interfaces or UAD Accelerators from select UA retailers.

If a current Apollo customer owns UAD plug-ins that are available in UAD Spark, how do they access the native versions that they're entitled to?
Customers will be notified by UA that they are eligible to redeem their UAD Spark versions for free via the UA Connect app.

Are there multiple subscription offerings?
Currently, the UAD Spark collection is offered via a subscription service for $19.99 USD/month or $149.99 USD/year.
